SA Maltese Philanthropist Charles Figallo

by RonBorg

It is often said, "Everyone loves a winner!" One such winner in Adelaide that has won the well deserved admiration of many, not just because he is successful in business but because he has stood out as a stanchion of support for the community in South Australia, is a gentleman by the name of Charles Renoir Figallo.

On the 20th May Figallo opened Adelaide's daily tabloid The Advertiser, and was delighted to learn that BAE, a multinational arms, security and aerospace company, has awarded contracts to three companies to build the Hunter Class Frigate Project. One of the companies, Novafast International is to provide a range of 'pipe infrastructure' for the prototyping phase of the programme, which is currently underway at Osborne shipyard in Adelaide.

This is indeed a feather in the cap of Charles Figallo (CEO), and his sons, Paul (General Manager), and David (Business & owned private equity business, with its global investment subsidiaries focusing on advanced engineering and construction within the following sectors: Oil & Gas, Mining & Resources, Water & Infrastructure Design, Engineering & Construction.

Basetec has provided composite pipelines for major projects in Queensland and also countries such as New Guinea, Africa and the Middle East, and maintains a solid relationship with Australian Universities to adopt testing and technical objectives.

Basetec Services has become an important supplier to Australia's growing oil and and in helping finance the Maltese-Australian Association's Anzac memorial in Malta.

On the 1st July 2015, during Charles Figallo's investiture at the ball of the Sovereign Hospitaller Order of St John of Jerusalem, the Knights of Malta, Grand Priory of Australia, Adelaide Commandery, Mr Vincent Tarzia, South Australian Parliamentary member for Hartley, said this of Charles and the other knights, "It is fantastic to see this philanthropy in the community.

THE SA BRANCH
Welcome to Mr Charles Figallo OAM

The SA Branch Committee welcomes new member Charles Figallo OAM, who was elected to the committee at this year's Annual General Meeting held on 26 February.

Charles founded Novafast Holdings in 1999 and has built the company from the ground up, serving as Chief Executive Officer for over 20 years.

Novafast Holdings in Kilkenny, SA is described on its website as an Australian-owned private equity business, with its global investment subsidiaries focusing on advanced engineering and construction within the sectors of oil & gas, mining & resources, water & infrastructure and design, Defence and commercial construction.

See more here: https://novafastholdings.com/

Charles has worked in the industry since his teenage years, and now has an extensive knowledge of composite materials and corrosion protection, as well as over 40 years of business operating experience.

Charles is heavily involved in various business and community groups in Adelaide.

His commitments to community organisations have included:

- Make a Wish Foundation
- Diabetes SA
- Variety SA
- Cancer Council SA
- The Fred Hollows Foundation
- Doctors Without Borders

Charles also had an active fund-raising role in financing the Maltese Australian Association's Anzac Memorial in Malta.

On 1 July 2015, Charles was invested as a Chevalier (Knight) of the Sovereign Hospitaller Order of St John of Jerusalem (the Knights of Malta).

He was awarded the Medal of the Order of Australia in the 2017 Australia Day 2017 Honours List, "For service to business, and to the community of South Australia".

$4m hi-tech defence hub

GIUSEPPE TAURIELLO

ADVANCED engineering company Novafast has unveiled a new $4m defence manufacturing facility after securing a contract with the $45bn future frigates program.

The company has developed a robotic technique to manufacture composite piping and fittings for use on defence projects and in other industries.

The technology is the centrepiece of the new facility in Kilkenny, and was developed with the assistance of a $2m grant from the federal government's Centre for Defence Industry Capability.

Novafast business manager David Figallo said the contract with the Hunter-class frigates project enabled the company to enhance its manufacturing capability and support future shipbuilding programs.

"Novafast is utilising its composite pipe technology, developed internally by our research and development team, to support the representative ship blocks that are being constructed as part of the Hunter program's prototyping phase," he said. "This technology is a significant boost for the defence industry both locally and nationally.

"The facility has already created 15 highly skilled roles and is projected to have created more than 25 roles by late 2023 as the first batch of ships go into production."

Novafast employs about 60 staff, manufacturing composite pipes, tanks, vessels and other materials for the oil and gas, water and infrastructure, resources, engineering, construction and defence sectors.

Mr Figallo said Novafast was the only Australian-based maker of glass-reinforced epoxy composite pipes – a high-pressure piping system – and it intended to become a global leader in the automation of composite technologies and production processes.

"At a time when Australia is facing increasing uncertainty in the region, it positions us as a key sovereign capability industry partner, and we're delighted to have the partnership of BAE Systems to undertake this work in Australia."

BAE Systems Australia – Maritime managing director Craig Lockhart said the Novafast contract was one of more than 40 awarded to Australian businesses during the early stages of the Hunter project.

NOVAFAST HOLDINGS GROUP

On 28 June, Charles Figallo OAM hosted a commissioning ceremony for Novafast Holdings Group's new $4 million Defence Composite Manufacturing Robotics Production facility in Kilkenny, SA (see above).

This follows on from Novafast securing a contract to support the new Hunter Class Frigate Program.

The ceremonial cutting of the ribbon was done by the Deputy Premier, the Honourable Susan Close MP.

The Group Business Manager is Paul Figallo, David Figallo is the Business & Strategy Manager, and Renee Figallo is the Company Secretary. Contracts such as this maximise the opportunities for Australian industry involvement in meeting Australia's defence capability needs.

DATUK PHILIP TING AM PGBK

Datuk Philip Ting AM PGBK from Sarawak recently paid a visit to Adelaide. A Sarawak businessman, Philip was appointed a Member of the Order of Australia (Honorary) on 1 July 2010, "For service to the Australian Government as the Honorary Consul of Australia – Kuching, in Sarawak, Malaysia".

Honorary appointments in the Order of Australia may be made to people who are not Australian citizens where they have given extraordinary service to Australia or humanity at large.

Philip has also been appointed a Commander of the Order of the Star of the Sarawak Hornbill (Panglima Gemilang Bintang Kenyalang, PGBK) by the Sarawak Government for excellent service to the State of Sarawak – an honour which grants the title 'Datuk'.

Philip came to Adelaide on Saturday 7 May to pay his last respects to Brian 'Snowy' Selby (1945-2022), late President of the SA & NT Branch of the National Malaya & Borneo Veterans Association Australia Inc.

Brian suffered a heart attack on Good Friday, and was unable to be resuscitated. Vice-President Don Cameron stepped in as Interim President. Philip had a close connection with the SA & NT Branch, having supported their commemorative services in Kuching in 2016 and 2019, and through his visits to Adelaide. On 7 May, Philip joined Branch members at their Malaya-Borneo memorial in the West Torrens War Memorial Gardens in Hilton to honour Brian's devoted efforts over many years.

Don Cameron advised the Branch Committee that he did not wish to take on the role of President; at a Special General Meeting held on Friday 20 May, Paul Rosenzweig OAM JP was elected as President of the SA/NT Branch of the National Malaya & Borneo Veterans Association Australia Inc.

Established in Australia in 1995, the NMBVAA offers membership to Australian and Allied ex-Armed Forces personnel (and widows, widowers, family and friends) who served in the prescribed areas of Malaya, Singapore and Borneo during World War 2, during the Malayan Emergency and Indonesian Confrontation with Malaysia, in Singapore, in Ubon, on the Malay Peninsula post-1966, with Rifle Company Butterworth, and in East Timor and Timor Leste.

The SA/NT Branch has created a Facebook page to share knowledge and historical information with veterans, family, friends and the broader community regarding these little-known post-World War 2 campaigns:

Coronation Medals

A Brief History, Part 1

In February 2023 we will mark the 70th anniversary of the day when Princess Elizabeth, as heir presumptive, acceded to the throne as Queen Elizabeth II, the fourth monarch of the House of Windsor.

Queen Elizabeth became Head of the Commonwealth and Queen Regnant of seven independent Commonwealth countries (the UK, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Pakistan and Ceylon).

And then in June we will mark the 70th anniversary of the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, an event which was marked throughout the Commonwealth by the awarding of a Coronation Medal.

Medals have long been awarded by a sovereign as a personal souvenir at the time of their coronation or on the jubilee of their accession to the throne.

At first, these medals were awarded only to the Royal Family and selected officers of state, officials and staff of the Royal Household, and senior public officials. Before long, they were also awarded to uniformed personnel present on duty during the ceremony and worthy members of the community throughout the Commonwealth.

King William IV Coronation Medal (1831)

Upon the death of King George IV on 26 June 1830 without surviving legitimate issue, William IV of the House of Hanover ascended to the British throne, at the age of 64.

William IV became King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the Kingdom of Hannover.

On 11 July 1818, he had married Adelaide of Saxe-Meiningen (Adelaide Amelia Louise Theresa Caroline).

The coronation of King William IV and Queen Adelaide was conducted at Westminster Abbey on 8 September 1831.

Various official coronation medallions were struck to mark the ceremony, continuing a tradition dating from the coronation of King Edward VI in 1547 when the first official medals to commemorate the coronation of a British sovereign were distributed.

These were medallions or commemorative coins, not intended for wear.

It was not until Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee in 1887 that the first official medal worn from a ribbon on the left breast in the now-familiar manner was awarded.

This medal was struck to mark the coronation of King William IV and Queen Adelaide of Saxe-Meiningen in London on 8 September 1831. The reverse bears the figures of King William IV and Queen Adelaide seated and facing right; allegorical images of Britannia (representing Britain), Hibernia (Ireland) and Scotia (Scotland) are offering crowns to the new King and Queen, with the Archbishop looking on and Fame flying above with trumpets.
